- Participants are given the opportunity to define their own place as valued community members. For those individuals seeking a slower paced environment that offers meaningful social and leisure opportunities, the program is structured into two major service components.
- Onsite, SOAR participants engage in a variety of recreational and leisure activities as well as training activities intended to enhance or maintain skills and interests already acquired. Participants enjoy arts and crafts activities, play bingo or video games, and enjoy many group activities.
- Weekly outings in the community are driven by the expressed or known choices of the individual participants and at a pace and intensity that respects the needs of the population. Outings include picnics in the park, trips to the movies, visits to the library, cultural events, and sports activities such as fishing and bowling.
- Staff ratio is 1:5-10
